Dell Rapids Shop Update

By Paul Lebahn

Above are a few photos highlighting what's currently happening in the Dell Rapids Shop. The first image features a 982M loader, on which we are wrapping up a mid-life overhaul. The second photo shows a new water truck that we are preparing for Ortonville. The third image is a reminder that even brand-new trucks experience issues, which we're addressing here in the shop.

It has been an incredibly busy time, with no real end in sight. Our team is working hard to keep up with day-to-day tasks while also tackling larger projects. One of the positives has been the return of a machinist to our team, Roger Osterholt, who is already proving to be an asset to the team. He's been keeping busy with a variety of tasks, including rebuilding pumps and gearboxes. Additionally, he has been fabricating new jaw bolts for the Ortonville jaw rebuild project, planned for this winter.

Everyone in the shop is pulling together to make sure we stay on track with our work, maintaining high-quality service and completing the big projects we have lined up. The hard work and dedication from the team is helping us navigate this busy period smoothly, ensuring that we continue to meet our goals and keep operations running smoothly.
